

Dwyer, Raymond, 2010, An Analysis of the Perceptions of Fifth Year Students of Teenage Drinking of Alcohol in Five Secondary Schools in the Republic of Ireland.

ABSTRACT OF DISSERTATION

This research project is a contemporary analysis of teenage drinking of alcohol among post primary school students in five secondary schools. The researcher has tried to compile informative data that could be used to inform individuals how serious the issue of underage drinking is in two specify areas of the Republic of Ireland.

The author will be considering the evidence that alcoholic drink is a serious problem among students and comparing it with findings from other research that has been done on this issue.

The dissertation is divided in to five chapters which cover areas of Literature view, research methodology, finds, analysis and interpretation and finally the chapter on conclusions and recommendation.

The findings in this research project are just a snap shot of a larger picture that is coming to the fore in the Irish society.
